The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the World's Fair can remain open Sunday.

The firemen declined to parade on Tuesday because of the place assigned them in the procession, behind the Indian School.

There were several good races at the track on Tuesday and there was a large attendance. Some of the heats were as good as anything at the District Fair.

The California editors have all left Chicago. It is said that the Democrats among them have gone to Washington. What a terrible rumour there will be in California if they should all get some appointment.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Fine Weather and the Usual Ceremonies.

Memorial Day witnessed the first real pleasant weather for some time, the day being balmy and delightful all through.

The city was decorated with flags, and every vehicle in Carson was in service.

The procession started a little after 10 as follows:

Sheriff Kinney and city police.

Grand Marshall Poujade and chief aids.

Carson Guard drum corps.

Carson Guard, under command of Lieutenant H. D. Thaxter, 34 strong.

G. A. R. Veterans, marshalled by Adjutant Hanford, 32 strong and each bearing a bouquet of choice flowers.

Carriages containing A. D. Treadway and Billy Cradelbaugh, Mexican Veterans and Postmaster Bell.

Public school pupils and teachers on foot.

Supt. and children of Orphans Home in uniform.

One hundred boys and girls of the Indian School marching in military fashion.

This feature of the procession attracted great attention.

Following was a long line of carriages containing the choir, officers of the day and private citizens.

AT THE CEMETERY.

The graves were very lavishly decorated at an early hour, and the place was pretty well filled with people before the procession arrived. When the cemetery was reached a dense throng gathered in the hollow square around the Custer monument, where the exercises were held as follows:

Music by the choir—Mrs. H. H. Howe and Mrs. W. T. Hanford, sopranos; Mrs. J. G. Fox, alto; Rev. Mr. Hyslop, Rev. Mr. Pearce and O. H. Gray, basses; and H. H. Howe and W. H. M. Cobb, tenors, with Prof. Pearce presiding at the organ.

Prayer by the Post Chaplain, E. F. Hall.

Solo by Mrs. Howe, accompanied by the choir.

Address by Post Commander Brulin.

Reciting of poem by Miss Ella Foley.

Song by the choir.

Decoration of Soldier's Monument by detail from the Post.

Singing by pupils of the Indian School.

The singing was delightfully rendered, the address was well considered and appropriate and the reciting of the poem was a special feature of the occasion.

After the exercises the graves of the Fort Churchill dead and the Union soldiers in various parts of the Cemetery were decorated. The entire day passed off without hitch or accident.

Eleven Convictions.

The following were convicted yesterday in the U. S. Court for selling whiskey to Indians:

Archib. Hill, Farovini Peters, John Bushoam, Geo. E. Smith, E. F. Bellair, Chung Sung, Jay Perry, Wm. McNulty, Chas. Saunders, Robt. Slatler, Harry Horton.

They were sentenced from three to nine months each, and fined $25 apiece.

Spring and Summer Goods.

Don't miss this opportunity of getting your clothing for one-half the usual price. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed.

WAR AT BUCKEYE.

THE RAYCRAFT FACTION ALL DRIVEN FROM THE FIELD WITH WINCHESTERS.

Raycrafts Cabin Riddled With Bullets.

On Tuesday evening there was considerable excitement in this city caused by the report that there had been some claim jumping at Buckeye and that Pete Millich of Genoa had been killed.

The first definite information regarding the trouble reached Carson yesterday morning, by Henry Morrison who reached this city a little past midnight.

He had been driven out of Buckeye in the afternoon and walked in. He gave the following account of the affair:

"Five of us were working in the cut at the time and the only trouble we feared was in regard to the water rights. None of us were armed and did not expect war, neither did we wish it. About half past nine Tuesday morning Arthur Raycraft sent a Chinese cook to the claim from the cabin to inform us that five armed men were making a sneak on the water works. We all started up there but Dick Raycraft advised Geo. Jaqua and myself to go back to the mine and watch it while the other three men went out to look after the water. It appears that the five armed men were working on just opposite lines and shortly afterwards sent three men to the mine and two to the water supply.

"Jaqua and myself were in the cut when they arrived and all three cocked their guns as they approached. They were Pete Millich, Bob and Will Trimmer. They advised us to leave at once as they were going to take possession. I argued with them some length of time and they were becoming desperate and told us if we didn't go out ourselves we would be packed out. Further resistance was useless and we did as directed. I was wearing gum boots at the time and insisted upon going to my cabin and changing them for leather boots thinking I would have to do a little walking. Millich shoved me on ahead of him until we were over the line when I interceded for Jaqua who is an old man and unable to walk to Carson, but pleading didn't go and Jaqua was notified that he must skip too.

"Finally two guards accompanied me back to the cabin under cocked rifles where I found a scene of desolation and a fine selection of bullet holes from rifles discharged at Arthur Raycraft. The jumpers had taken possession of the place and run him and the Chinese cook off. I changed my clothes and boots before starting on the back track to Carson. Two men followed us three miles out of camp and told us to sneak for Carson and stay there. We traveled over the hot sands until our feet were terrible blistered and swollen. I was compelled to take my boots off and travel barefooted in the sand toward evening. We got here about 12 o'clock and both of us were staggering from weakness and suffering."

Here Mr. Morrison displayed his blistered foot upon which he was compelled to wear large slippers.

"The reports that Pete Millich was dead are mere conjectures as I think he was merely shot through the hat. It might have scratched him but nothing more serious. It is a mystery to me however that Arthur was not killed outright. He is a hard fighter anyhow and proves his eather. One of the Stevenson boys shot seven shots at Tom Raycraft as he was running along the sluice box but missed him.

"One bullet struck directly at Dick's feet scattering dirt over him.

"Yes, we propose to fight for the claim. It belongs to us and we have had warrants issued for several arrests. I don't think the trouble will be over until they vacate and turn our property over to us."

Joe Raycraft on hearing of the shooting went up to Genoa and there met his brothers Dick, Arthur and Tom with Jim Lohr all of whom had been driven out of Buckeye.

Mr. Raycraft said.

"Arthur had been sick for twelve days in his cabin and yesterday about 9:30 his Chinese cook told him some men were going to the mine with guns. Arthur got up and saw Pete Millich and the two Trimmers coming for the mine with Henry Morrison and Geo. Jaqua, whom they held as prisoners. They took them down to Stevenson's camp and then Millich and another man came back. About the time they got there a bullet came through the cabin but from what direction it was hard to tell. Millich got behind a tree and began shooting at Arthur and at the same time bullets were pouring into the cabin from parties on the side of mountain, bullets and splinters were flying about Arthur's head and it was a pretty hot place to stay in. Arthur started down the canyon the bullets flying after him.

Tom thought Arthur was killed and went back to the cabin. He halloed for Arthur and Pete Millich came out of the cabin and commenced shooting at Tom. All the while the parties on the hill were shooting at Dick Raycraft and Jim Lohr.

Bullets struck all around Dick. Finally they got out of sight and when they came in view again, four more shots were fired. They got away and overtook Arthur about ten miles from the place with his legs badly swollen. They got a team and took him to Genoa, where he now lies quite sick.

They told me that the whole thing was the most cowardly they ever heard of; as much so as the shooting at the Mountain Meadow Massacre. They tried their best to kill them all.

It seems they wanted to kill the Raycrafts and Jim Lohr. The men they were shooting at were all unarmed and defenseless, which fact is proved by all their firearms being still in the cabin. The Millich gang went in and smashed everything in the cabin.

Before this, Lew Stevenson met a young man from Dayton, and he drew his gun and ordered him back. He said he wanted to go to Raycraft's camp for grub, but Stevenson would not let him proceed. He acted like a highwayman. After the Raycrafts went away he set to work cleaning up the sluice boxes. There was about $200 worth of gold in the sluices.

Arthur Raycraft defended his cabin with his rifle until the fire got warm. One ball went through Millich's coat and grazed his side. Arthur had his mustache shot off.

Reaching Genoa he swore out complaints against nine of the fighters and the Sheriff started out with the warrants. When he reached Buckeye the men for whom he had warrants, refused to go but resisted arrest. He accordingly returned to get a posse of citizens. Genoa was arming last night to march on Buckeye. The posse will leave this morning and a lively time is expected.

County Stuck for the Costs.

Yesterday Frank Helm came to Justice Hawthorne and slipped a dollar into his hand saying that it was from Harry Thaxter.

"Is this all?" asked his Honor.

"All he gave me."

It was evident that the Thaxters proposed to settle the chicken case by merely paying the dollar fine and then letting the County whistle for the costs. The Court was quite astonished, but most everybody else was not surprised.

The District Attorney made an endeavor to see what could be done about the costs, but Harry said he was told to do as he did by Summerfield, the same authority who told him to shoot the chicken.

The Court proposes to levy on Harry's personal property, if he can find any.

It looks as if the county was stuck for the costs unless the Thaxters conclude to do the honorable thing and settle.

Epidemic of Insanity.

Canandaigua, N. Y., May 31.—Four persons of Canandaigua have been adjudged insane during the last five days. The last one, Samuel Lenahan, went to the State asylum at Willard yesterday. Lenahan on Saturday cut out his dog's tongue and knocked its brains out.

For the past year Ontario county has the remarkable record of sending two persons each week to Willard Asylum.

A Distinguished Confederate.

Wade Hampton the famous Confederate General, and now a railroad Commissioner, reached the city last evening with an excursion party in a Pullman car. The party will proceed to the Lake to-day. There are two sleepers and a baggage car and seventeen people in the excursion.
